

I fly about 6 times a year to visit my boyfriend who lives about 1500 miles away. The flight is about 2 to 2 and a half hours long. Many times people get irate or cranky because a baby cries or a couple fights. I can only imagine that several people talking on telephones during the flight would add to irate passengers and possibly incidents on airplanes.